Fiscal Year 2005 Highlights

Cities Alliance members paid in more than US$16.4 million in contributions during fiscal year 2005, including US$7.25 million in core contributions, US$2.4 million for the Community-Led Infrastructure Finance Facility and US$1.4 million for the Sub-Saharan Africa Facility. Italy paid in more than US$2.5 million to complete financing for the integrated social and physical slum upgrading programme in Salvador, Brazil.

New funding allocations of US$14.4 million were approved during FY05, more than double the US$6.3 million approved in FY04. The FY05 approvals included US$7.8 million from core funds, an increase of US$3.1 million from FY04 approvals. Total disbursements exceeded US$12.1 million during the year. The activities approved in FY05 are linked to more than US$1.0 billion in prospective investments, bringing the Alliance's links to investment to more than US$6.3 billion over the past five years.

The World Bank sent a strong signal of its support for urban development in general and for the Cities Alliance in particular when it made a commitment to longer-term funding for the Alliance and announced a financial contribution of US$3.0 million for FY06, almost double the US$1.7 million funding allocations for the Alliance in recent years. According to former World Bank President, James Wolfensohn, this was in recognition of the Alliance's 'strong performance and important role in addressing critical urban issues'.

A major new initiative launched during FY05 was UN-HABITAT's Slum Upgrading Facility, which is a technical advisory facility to assist national and local governments and community organisations in the development of financially sustainable slum upgrading, low-cost housing and urban development projects designed to attract funding primarily from domestic capital markets. The United Kingdom made a three-year funding commitment of US$10.0 million for the pilot phase of the facility, including an initial US$3.0 million approved for FY05. An additional US$20.0 million is being sought for the pilot phase.

The United Kingdom also committed £300,000 during the year to support the Cities Alliance's knowledge generation and learning activities. This included support for the MFTF, and DFID joined with Japan in co-financing the CDS conference held in November 2004 in Hanoi. The Netherlands continued its support for local economic activities, approving US$250,000 for an initiative, “Incubating LED Partnerships”. Norway committed US$75,000 for the Alliance’s urban finance initiatives, and Sweden committed US$75,000 towards pre-implementation activities of the Slum Upgrading Facility.

Italy provided Euro 660,000 during the year for scaling up successful CDS and upgrading programmes in the Latin American and Caribbean region, and next year is expected to finalise its Euro 5.75 million contribution for a statewide slum upgrading programme in Bahia, Brazil.
